HALLOWE'EN DINNER

HONGKONG SCOTSMEN MAKE MERRY.

VOLUNTEER DINNER.

All the ingredients of the typical Halloween festival were present at the Volunteer Drill Hall on Saturday night when the Scottish Company of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps assembled to the number of over a hundred strong. The Pipes were there, so were the inevitable haggis, "chieftain of the pudding race"—the apples for the dooking, the treacle scones, and, to be sure, "a wee druppel o' t." There was no tedious speech-making—the formal toast list was submitted, but the various "kitties" entrusted therewith were short and pithy—and happy in their choice of words, even though these were few.

The call to dinner was sounded on the pipes, and then the Scottish Volunteers filed into the hall, making a brave show in their tartans and uniforms. Next followed "grace," without which a truly Scottish meal cannot be properly taken. Broth was done ample justice to and then the company settled down to "wet their whistles" and to demonstrate in no uncertain manner their appreciation of the many good things provided by the Company's "Minister of the Interior." There were eating and toasting, singing and piping, and "refreshing" and hour succeeded hour with "rapid fire" precision and speed until it came to "dooking" time, which was entered into with much merriment, the knights of the treacle scone being not a whit behind in adding to the liveliness of the occasion.

Capt. J. B. Ross, who presided, read a letter of apology of absence from Mr. R. G. Shewan, and the following cablegram from Calcutta St. Andrew's Society:—
"Greetings Calcutta Scottish—Cradlock."

Supporting Captain Ross was Lieut. Col. L. G. Bird, D.S.O., Commandant of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps, Commodore A. J. B. Stirling, Major Black, President of St. Andrew's Society and members of the Committee of the St. Andrew's Society.

The hall was tastefully decorated with flags and greenery in profusion; in the centre being the huge tub for the "dooking."

The bill of fare was as under:—

"Our Chieftain."

This toast was proposed by Pte. D. L. McWhirter, who said:—"The toast of 'Our Chieftain' might quite fittingly be proposed in the same way as the Loyal toast is proposed. He is, as it were, our King; to him we owe a loyalty as deep as was accorded the Chieftain of yore and sentiment would fit the mere proposition, 'Our Chieftain.'"

In the course of other remarks the speaker said that "R. L. Stevenson has said that 'The happiest lot on earth is—to be born a Scotsman.' Not the 'bawbee counting' Scotsmen of our Sassenach friends, nor yet the Scotsman as portrayed in the words of 'The Pauky Duke,' but rather the individual whose happiness lies in the veneration of the Homeland and all its associations."

He said that in Dr. Black, the Scottish community in Hongkong had a Chieftain who would worthily uphold the traditions of our race and fill with dignity the office to which he had been unanimously elected. (Applause.)

He asked the company to rise and pledge their loyalty to "Our Chieftain."

Major Black, who was received with the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," said that the gathering that night breathed the atmosphere of Scotland. It carried their minds back to what they had read in Jane Porter and Walter Scott; to what they read about Wallace and Donald, Earl of Atholl; of Rob Roy and Macgregor's coming. The spirit of all these historical Scots, who had done so much to make the name of Scotland known and revered, was in that gathering of the Scottish Company of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps—a spirit that would live wherever Scots resided throughout the world. He took that opportunity of thanking the members of St. Andrew's Society for electing him as their Chieftain, although the duties of his office were not confined to looking beautiful or trying to look beautiful on the night of St. Andrew's Ball. He would strive to uphold the traditions of Chieftain and maintain the high standard set by those who had gone before him, and thus show his appreciation of the high honour that had done him by electing him Chieftain. (Applause.)

"Our Mither Country."

Pte. B. Wylie, in proposing the toast of "Our Mither Country," took his hearers back to the days when they were children and looked to their "mither" to help them on with their kilts and to help them to do everything that needed doing. They could never forget what their "mither" had done for them; what their "mither" had been to them. In the same way they could never forget what the "Mither" Country had done for them as Scotsmen and how Scotsmen, although roaming the world, always looked to the "Mither" Country with love and reverence and respect, in gratitude for all that had been done for them. (Applause.)

"Our Guests."

This toast was proposed by Lieutenant Adams, who expressed the heartfelt thanks of the Scottish Company to that true Scotsman Mr. Stevenson, "chieftain" of the Dairy Farm, for his kindness in providing the grand "pudden" namely, the haggis, without which no Scottish dinner would be complete. To "Geordie" Duncan, to Pte. Ben Wylie, who had been a silent worker behind the scenes; and to the Acting Quarter-Master Sergeant, not forgetting the "wee butcher" for his share in providing such a grand meal. Proceeding, he remarked that they ought to get hold of every new Scotsman who arrived here. There were always new arrivals from the Engineers, the Infantry, the Armoured Cars, and the Mounted Infantry; and if they got hold of these they would have a Scottish Company 220 instead of 120 strong. (Hear, hear.) He coupled the toast with the names of Mr. McKay and Mr. Kay.

Both these gentlemen appropriately responded at an interval in the "dooking" operations.

"Kowloon's Own."

A special welcome was given by the Chairman to Lieut. Donald Logan, whose transfer to Shanghai was contemplated but later cancelled.

Lieut. Logan, who was described as one of the ablest officers the Corps ever had, made a fitting response in spite of his allegation that he was not good at speech-making.

The Guisers.

The entry of the guisers at an appropriate interval in the evening's proceedings was the occasion for much merriment. They were led in by the "auld mither" and her "wee sonnie" (alias the "wee butcher") and their songs and "capers" caused immense merriment. There were some whose disguises could be penetrated; but others succeeded in hiding their identity extremely well. The chief "turn" was the singing of a topical song by the "wee butcher," some of the verses of which are worthy of repetition:—

In the Hongkong Scottish Corps We hae gallant men galore, But the pride o' the lot is Captain Ross.

He's a hefty Hielan' chiel, An' his men a' loo him weel; He's the sort o' man they're proud tae own as boss.

Oh John, John, ma Hielan' laddie John,

See that ye come back tae us again; An' nitho' yir somewhat fat, Ye're nane the waur o' that.

Yir ma herty herty Hielan' laddie John.

Billy Adams is the boy If ye want a merry play, He's an antidote for ilka grief an' ill.

A' the lasses in Kowloon Like tae see a handsome loon, For a verru weel developed lad is Bill.

In the ranks we hae a man Who will sume be 'also ran' A corpulent auld blacksmith they ca' Pete.

If ye gae doon tae Taskoo He is sure tae mak' ye fou, But he never gies ye anything tae eat.

Oh Pete, Pete, ma hoary heided Pete,

Dimma drink sae much or ye'll be fou.

Since yir chest has slipt a bit An' yir tunic wima fit, Quarter Maister Sairgent's noo the job for you.

The company at the close of the evening's programme gathered round the piano and joined in the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem, thus bringing to a close a real Scottish "nicht" and a real good celebration of Halloween, for which all concerned with the responsible work of preparation are to be very highly complimented.

BRAIN WAVES.

STRANGE WIRELESS SIGNALS DESCRIBED.

Signor Cazzamali, professor of neurology and psychiatry at the Milan University, declares in a paper to appear in the forthcoming number of the Revue Metapsychique that the human brain, in certain conditions, radiates electromagnetic oscillations of the same type as the radio electric waves of wireless telegraphy.

His experiments were carried out by means of a metallic isolated chamber in which were installed four wireless receivers, one with a valve the others crystal.

The subjects he chose were patients suffering from nervous ailments, or hypnotic subjects, and also Signora Maggi, an Italian woman known as a clairvoyant.

When any subject was placed in the chamber facing the receivers, and thrown into a hypnotic state, or subjected to mental excitement, sounds were distinctly audible similar to wireless signals. These ceased when the subject returned to the normal and started again when the abnormal condition was resumed.

Signor Cazzamali is convinced that the sounds are produced by electro magnetic waves emanating from and determined by the psychic condition of the patient.

Rome, October 31.—To-day the climate to three days' celebration was a Fascist march to Rome. It was an impressive spectacle, with 200 aeroplanes circling over the capital. At an early hour the Fascist Secretary-General, Signor Farinacci, addressed a crowded audience at the Colosseum Theatre. Thousands were turned away. He claimed that the world's eyes were turned to Italy which thanks to the Fascist was the only country that had surmounted the post-war period of chaos. He reviewed the reconstruction of Italy since the Fascist march to Rome. He pointed out that the Fascist Government had been successful in restoring order and prosperity to the country. WEMBLEY CLOSES.

THE KING ON GREAT LESSONS.

(Reuters Service.)

London, October 31.

Despite a heavy fog a crowd was waiting at the turnstiles before 8 o'clock this morning anxious to be present at the closing ceremony of Wembley.

The Duke of York, through amplifiers, addressed an audience which packed the Stadium. He read this message from H.M. the King:—"The Exhibition marks an important stage in the history of my people, both at home and overseas. It has not only taught us much of the productive capacity of the Empire but has stimulated a legitimate pride in our past achievements as well as increased our sense of responsibility for the years to come. I pray that those lessons will not be forgotten and that under God's guidance our Commonwealth of nations and mankind in general may strive to attain that spirit of mutual trust and confidence without which the peace and happiness of the world cannot be secured."

The Duke of York dwelt on the strenuous and self-sacrificing labour of the Governments of the Empire, the Executive Council Board and the administrative staffs in carrying out this great Imperial undertaking. He said the decision to continue Wembley a second year was amply justified, and doubt no longer existed that the Exhibition had completed a task of Empire education.

Wembley's Farewell.

Wembley passed to-night amid scenes livelier than any in its two years' history. Over 100,000 people swarmed over the grounds in a final farewell. The Stadium was literally besieged by crowds clamouring for admission to the Torchlight Tattoo. Tens of thousands were turned away and over 50,000 witnessed the final performance. Every available nook was occupied and ticket-holders reaped a veritable harvest. Some, it is believed, turned over several hundreds sterling in the course of a few hours by selling two shilling tickets at a sovereign apiece. The last seen of the great Exhibition, by the dispersing crowds was searchlights playing on the figure of St. George. The total attendance for the year to last night was 9,500,000 compared with 17,500,000 last year.

$7,000,000 FRAUD?

(Reuters American Service.)

New York, October 31.

The Government investigation into the activities of the ex-custodian of alien property, Thomas Miller, came to a climax when a special Federal grand jury indicted Miller for conspiring with others, including two German and one Swiss firms, to defraud the United States Government by procuring payments to them of $7,000,000 United States Liberty Bonds. The lengthy indictment mentions a plan alleged to have been worked out in Germany by one of the accused for the purpose of obtaining payment of money by Miller and also specifically charges that immediately after one of the claimants received $7,000,000 from the United States treasury he paid $391,000 to Miller and others in a New York hotel.

BOAT SCUTTLED.

IRISH WAY WITH RATE
COLLECTORS.

"YOU WILL NOT COME."

A remarkable story of the alleged scuttling of a boat was told at Dungloe District Court, when James O'Donnell, of Innisfree, an island ten miles off Donegal, was committed for trial on a charge of obstructing two bailiffs in the execution of their duty.

The evidence of one of the bailiffs was that he and his colleague were ordered to execute decrees on the island, for unpaid rates. A fisherman was rowing them to the island when they were overtaken by O'Donnell, who asked to join them.
He was allowed to do so, and after they had gone some distance he drove an oar through the bottom of the boat.

"You will not come to the island now," he said, and then stepped into his own boat.

"Our boat started to sink," said the bailiff, "and we pulled alongside O'Donnell's boat and jumped in. We rowed back and handed O'Donnell over to the civil guards."

The defence was that the bailiffs were not on duty at the time, but this point was over-ruled.

It was stated that the people on the islands of Donegal have not paid any rates for years, and thousands of pounds are owing.

COLONY'S WELCOME. STRIFE IN NORTH.

H.E. MR. CECIL CLEMENTI ARRIVES.

"A HOME COMING."

Queen's Pier, some twenty hours after the departure of Hongkong's late Governor, Sir R.E. Stubbs, K.C.M.G., was the scene yesterday morning of the welcome of the new Governor, Mr. Cecil Clementi, C.M.G., who twelve years previously left here after thirteen years' service in many capacities, including that of acting Colonial Secretary.

Decorations of plants and ferns hung from the Pier which was carpeted in crimson its whole length. His Excellency upon arrival by the "Victoria" which conveyed him from the S.S. "Kalyan" was introduced to the members of the Executive and Legislative Councils, the Judges, members of the Civil Service, the Consular Body, representatives of the Navy and Army and leading residents of the foreign and Chinese community who were assembled on the pier. This occupied a quarter of an hour during which time a throng of the general public at the foot of the pier had the opportunity of observing the new Governor of Hongkong.

His Excellency proceeded to the Council Chamber by motor car accompanied by Sir Claud Severn, the route from the pier, up Wardley Street, through the Square and up Garden Road being lined by troops from the Punjab Regiment on either side of the roads. A Guard of Honour outside the Colonial Secretariat presented arms as His Excellency drove up. The swearing-in ceremony in the Council Chamber was attended by members of the general public as well as members of the Legislative Council, the acting Chief Justice (His Honour, Mr. H. H. J. Gompertz) and the acting Puisne Judge (Mr. J. R. Wood). Mrs. Clementi occupied a central seat in the front row reserved for the public.

WELCOME SPEECHES.

The swearing-in ceremony over, the Colonial Secretary said: Your Excellency, on behalf of the Civil Service in Hongkong I desire to extend to you and to Mrs. Clementi a very hearty welcome on your return to these familiar scenes and to express our earnest hope that your period of administration here as Governor will be crowned with every possible success. (Applause).

Hon. Mr. P. H. Holyoak: Your Excellency, on behalf of the Executive and Legislative Councils of this Colony I beg to tender to you and to your wife our most cordial greetings and welcome as well as our congratulations upon your elevation to the distinguished position of Governor of this Colony. For reasons which you will understand, we have not prepared a formal address of welcome, but I am sure you will realise this welcome is none the less cordial and sincere. You have returned to us, Sir, in troubled times. May you soon have the satisfaction of seeing under your rule and guidance this Colony return to its former prosperity. (Applause).

A HAPPY DAY.

Hon. Mr. Chow Shou-son: Sir, in the name of the Chinese community I extend to your Excellency and Mrs. Clementi a most hearty welcome back to Hongkong. You and Mrs. Clementi are no strangers to this Colony; in fact, a large number of our residents have the honour to count both of you as old friends. It was a little over twelve years ago that you left here for British Guiana, and I was told by my colleague, the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall that it was then the general opinion of the Hongkong Civil Service that you would come back one day as our Governor. In your reply to the address presented to you by the junior and subordinate members of the Civil Service prior to your departure, you said that you feared you were bidding Hongkong good-bye for ever. Fortunately for Hongkong our Civil Service was more correct in its forecast than you were. (Laughter and applause). It was a happy day when His Majesty's Government appointed you to the high office which you have just assumed, for your fourteen years' residence here and your intimate knowledge of, and great sympathy for, China and the Chinese must be inestimable assets in times such as those through which we are passing. This Chinese hailed with joy the news of your appointment, feeling confident that under your rule and guidance the destinies of this growing Colony will be in safe hands. On behalf of my colleagues and myself, and of the leading Chinese, I assure you of our unstinted support. (Applause).

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORIES.

(Reuter's Service.)

Peking, Nov. 1.

The Mukden leaders and Sun Chuan-lung are both claiming great victories between Hsuehchow and Pengpu with thousands of casualties and prisoners.

These reports are taken to indicate that fighting has begun, but it is believed it is not yet heavy.

Delegates of Feng Yu-shiang, Chang Tso-lin and Yueh Wei-chun are negotiating in Peking.

Feng Yu-shiang is reported to be demanding that the Fengtienists shall give up Pholigeto and the Famingfu section of the Peking railway and also Jehol, as the price of his support.

Reports indicate that eight train-loads of Chekiang troops left for Minkiang yesterday. Chen Tso-yuwen with a Kuangsi division entered yesterday for Chinkiang, and subsequently by boat for Chinkiangpu to cut off the Fengtien

Hsuehchow flank movement.

EX-PEKING ENVOY.

Moscow, Oct. 31.—M. Karakhan has been appointed Third Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, the first being Litvinoff and the second Rakovsky.—Reuter.

Paris, October 31.—M. Painleve, interviewed to-day, said he hoped to table financial proposals as soon as possible, based on M. Guilhaix's scheme with modifications, the first principle being the debt-funding by specially levied resources, principally on acquired wealth or on all forms of wealth and capital. Methods and the amount of the contribution are left open to discussion.—Reuter.

with applause on rising to reply. He said: Hon. members of the Legislative Council, I thank you very sincerely for your welcome. After twelve years' absence, my return to Hongkong seems to me like a home-coming, for it is here that I was initiated into the work of Colonial administration and it is here that I married. Every hill and valley, stream and inlet in this beautiful Colony were well known to me in the old days, and though, since I have left, you have taken some of the hills and thrown them into the sea, I expect to recognise several familiar landmarks. I also look forward to reviving many old friendships and to making many new ones, for I trust that the kindness which almost say the affection—which was given me too generously when I last served in Hongkong, may be accorded to me in even fuller measure now that my responsibilities have so greatly increased.

Gentlemen, the times are sadly out of joint, and you will not expect me within a few hours of my arrival with much to re-learn and some things perhaps to un-learn, to express any opinion upon the difficulties which now confront this Colony. All that it becomes me at present to say is that I shall do my utmost with your assistance to overcome those difficulties. During my previous service in Hongkong I travelled much in many parts of China, and since I left Hongkong I have travelled much in other parts of the world, but the wider my experience the greater is my admiration for the British genius for colonialisation and for the good sense, industry and enterprise of the Chinese people of Hongkong. It is a wonderful example of the brilliant results which follow when these two races work side by side and co-operate. I assure you of my unstinted support. (Applause).

"THE GOLD RUSH."

NEW CHAPLIN FILM HERE.

A "DRAMATIC COMEDY."

After an absence of over two years Chaplin himself and his boots and hat came back again to the screen in "The Gold Rush," a "dramatic comedy," which will be shown at the Queen's Theatre to-day. In the words of the "Manchester Guardian": "This is a full-length story, a full two-hour story, none of your thumb-nail Chaplins sketched in a dash of lightning wit as 'The Tramp,' was, and 'The Pilgrim' not so long ago. The 'Gold Rush' Chaplin is a man with a tale to tell, not a man with a comic theme, not even a man with a handful of comic themes to blaze in the black and white of his camera's eye. He wants to tell, as men will talk, in disjointed narrative round a camp fire about the hardships and adventures of the early gold-seekers in Alaska, about the thousands who struggled up the Klondike Pass, the gateway to the Klondike gold-fields, in blizzard and snow after a dream of fortune for the digging. And he wants to tell, in particular, about a little tramp whom he calls, for want of any other name, 'Lonely,' but whom he might just as happily call 'Charlie,' as everyone else will.

Lonely is a gold prospector too, with buggy trousers, neat black gloves with nice stitching down the back, a familiar bowler hat, familiar boots, a familiar cane—Charlie in full livery, in fact, shuffling through Alaska. He is chased by bears, carried away in a blizzard, in another blizzard, and in yet a third blizzard, he is blown into the hut of an outlaw wanted for murder, and straightway blows out of it again; he falls in love in a dancing-saloon with the most beautiful girl in the world, and gets a great many slaps to body and spirit for his pains; he falls into company in the storm with another solitary gold-seeker, a starving giant who wants to cook him for a spring chicken; and finally he lights with this companion, upon a gold mine, becomes a multi-millionaire with two fur coats, and marries the girl of his dreams in the finest cabin of the finest suite of the finest steamer homeward bound.

"The Gold Rush" is rich in nuggets of comic thought, but they are scattered, so to speak, in the fullest Chaplin vein. He is one, with Charlie—how the name creeps in—eating 'daintily' of a filleted boot; here another, with Charlie alone invisible, in the crowded saloon; there a third, with Charlie kicking a couple of rolls and dinner forks into a grave semblance of a dance. There are other comic nuggets, a whole bowler hat full of them.

Charlie Chaplin cannot make an insignificant film, even when he spends $200,000 in the process, but his is essentially a miniature art which finds its truest expression in the simplest things, reached by the simple steps that children and genius share.

PERSIA'S RULERS.

(Reuter's Service.)

Tehran, Oct. 31.

The Mejlis has passed a resolution by 85 to 5 deposing the Kajar Dynasty "for the sake of national welfare." A temporary government within constitutional national laws has been entrusted to the Premier, Riza Khan, but it is left to the National Assembly to decide what the permanent government will be.

A strong national movement against the present Dynasty has been started in the past few days. The Mejlis is receiving numerous threatening telegrams from the provinces. It convened a special session to discuss the matter but a few shots, accidentally fired outside the Parliament building, caused a hasty adjournment.

"MOSCOW METHODS."

WARNING BY MR. J. R. CLYNES.

"WOULD HASTEN OUR OWN RUIN."

A warning against the employment of Moscow methods in Britain was uttered by the Right Hon. J. R. Clynes, M.P., speaking at Highbury-on-Tyne. Reviewing the proceedings of the Trades Union Congress, he said the congress had shattered the idea that the motive of those who supported the miners in the recent crisis was political or revolutionary. With the exception of an odd sentence in an odd speech, by one or two of the less responsible delegates, the debates had shown the greatest concern for workshop betterment and for a higher standard of living. The public would not judge too sternly some of the strong language which had been used. This frightened nobody, for they all knew that the capitalist would not fall under any weight of resolution. It would be changed, in due time, only when the nation was ready to accept modifications of it, and in the end its abolition for such better system as could be devised. The march of ideas could not be stayed, and the class which was doing a greater disservice to the nation than even those who talked of revolution was the class which resisted every effort to change for the better or to extend the benefits of civilisation. The more intelligent of the masses were incensed against the existing system when they looked, looked for instance, at the collector and the royalty owner, at the sweating drudge and the plutocrat, at the productive and indispensable craftsman or labourer and the groups of under-serving but yet rich idlers.

Mr. Clynes went on to refer to the Minority Movement, and said the objectives of the groups of Communists, or "Reds," or revolutionaries were due less to influence from Moscow than to wage deductions and growing unemployment. "Our outlook on Moscow," he proceeded, "does not arise from any wish to copy Moscow methods, and only a few who appear to know little of other British history or character seriously seek to imitate conditions which, if applied here, would hasten our own ruin."

The refusal of the Congress to give to the General Council increased powers for militant action provided the image preference of the British character for prudence, and reason in the conduct of industrial affairs. The various trade unions were naturally jealous of their own privileges and conditions of self-government, and though they would stand together in common defence of some general standard which must be maintained, they would never yield to any outside body, however representative or powerful, the autonomy which belonged to the members of the separate organisations.

The Congress showed not the slightest sympathy with isolated instances in which lately they had seen a hint as the use of a little violence for the defence of working-class interests. "We need make no preparation here to resist anything by force of arms," Mr. Clynes added. "Should any one class begin to do that, many other classes would follow in imitation immediately. Violence would intensify every evil from which we suffer, and straight conflict could and only in the starvation of working-class families, in crushing the heads of men, breaking the hearts of women, and leaving us with every problem to settle after the faction fight had finished. The idea of a revolution is entertained by only a few, and to a large extent they are amongst the new recruits who know nothing of the development of organised labour in Britain."

Revolution would leave the problem of unemployment unsettled. It would make the housing difficulty worse; it would not restore our markets; it would throw into a condition of greater dislocation all our industries, and commercial relations with the world at large. The Minister of Labour had recently made an appeal for industrial peace. The Trades Union Congress and those who stand in the way of that peace. Organised Labour was on the side of peace, but it must be peace at the price of fair play.

"So you have a daughter, Oles?" "Yes, a little prodigy."

"In what way?" "She is ten years old and doesn't play the piano."

"I don't think you love her, Oles, do you?"

"Why? What makes you think so?"

"Because she doesn't play the piano."

"But she is ten years old and doesn't play the piano."

"I don't think you love her, Oles, do you?"

"Why? What makes you think so?"

"Because she doesn't play the piano."

LAWN BOWLS.

LOCAL SINGLES AND PAIRS FINALS

PRESENTATION OF PRIZES.

Hongkong's lawn bowls season proper was brought to a close on Saturday afternoon, at the Civil Service Cricket Club by the finals in the singles and doubles open championships of the Colony.

The rinks were both in good order, though that on which the singles final was played was a little tricky. This, of course, affected both finalists equally, although Cullen, of the Kowloon Dock, was, if anything, quicker to find both the green and the distance than his more experienced opponent, Wotherspoon, of Talkoo Dock.

The Chairman of the Civil Service Cricket Club, and the Bowls Convener, Messrs. P. T. Lambie and R. A. Smith, supported by other prominent members of the Club, had made excellent arrangement for the gathering, and the traditions of the Club in the matter of hospitality were greatly appreciated by the large number of members from other Bowling Clubs and their lady friends.

Won At First Try.

As indicated this was fought out between F. Cullen, of the Kowloon Dock Recreation Club, who entered the open championship for the first time this season, and W. Wotherspoon, of Talkoo Recreation Club, a veteran at the game, who has figured in previous finals but who has always had the misfortune to have all the "joss" against him.

Cullen's early lead had an important bearing on the ultimate result. But for securing a one and a three in the first two heads there is no saying how the match might have ended, as this gave him a confidence in his debut in championship finals that stood him in excellent stead. Many old bowlers expressed the opinion that of the two Wotherspoon sent up the better bowls of the two, taking the game as a whole, but during the first half he always was either too short or too steamy—particularly the latter—and then when he did lie on the jack Cullen drove and displaced him. Still, there was always a difference of from five to seven shots between the respective scores, until just after the tea interval at which the score read 17-10 in Cullen's favour. Then, on resuming, Wotherspoon raised the hopes of his friends by notching a three, making the scores 17-13. This might have perturbed many a player older in experience than Cullen, whose reply, however, was staggering—another three to his own credit. In the last head Cullen secured a couple and thus ran out winner by a majority of nine points—22-13.

The score card read:—

Talkoo Win Doubles

This was contested by the representatives of Talkoo Recreation Club and the Police Recreation Club, Messrs. J. Russell and R. C. Wallace appearing for the former and Messrs. A. Clark and West for the Police.

The Police played with the greatest confidence of the two teams from the outset, gaining a quartette on the first head and raising their score to 11-4 at the ninth head. A two and a three gave the Talkoo supporters hope, which was increased at the thirteenth head when they bagged five, bringing the totals for 14-12 in favour of Talkoo. A four came the way of the Police in the fourteenth head, but the Talkoo couple monopolised the succeeding three heads with a one, a two, and a five, establishing a strong lead of six. Careful play by Skip West, resulted in two ones and a two for his side, and with only one head to go the scores read 22-20 in favour of Talkoo. The latter had little difficulty in adding a couple in the last head and thus won by 24-20.

The final score fairly reflects the abilities of the respective pairs. Clark was the superior of Russell in the first half, but after the tea interval the latter showed some of his old skill and had easily the better of the exchanges. Of the skips, West did quite good work at times, but Wallace played the steadier game, particularly after the Police lead was wiped out, and he deserves every credit for his share in transforming a deficit of seven into a lead of six and then four.

The score sheet read as follows:—

	Talkoo	Police

Trophies Presented.

At the close of the matches, Mr. P. T. Lambie, as Chairman of the Committee of the Civil Service Cricket Club, welcomed the visitors and expressed the pleasure of his Club in having the finals of the open championships played on their rinks.

Chief Inspector Kent, Chairman of the Lawn Bowls Association, referred to the generosity of Messrs. A. S. Watson & Co., Ltd., in presenting four replicas of the Spey Royal Cup which he called upon Mr. J. A. Tarrant, of Messrs. Watson's to present to the winners—the Kowloon Bowling Green Club.

Mr. Tarrant alluded to the willingness of Messrs. W. and A. Gilbey to offer a Cup for some local sport, and as it was left to him to decide to what sport it should be given, he had no hesitation in offering it on behalf of Messrs. Gilbey to bowls. He asked Mrs. Gow to present the Cup to Mr. P. T. Farrell as President of the Kowloon Green Bowling Green.

Mrs. Gow also presented the championship prizes as follows:—

Open championship (singles).—Mr. Cullen (prize presented by Mr. D. Gow); runner-up, Mr. Wotherspoon—(prize presented by Mr. A. Stevenson); third and fourth prizes, Messrs. Gregory and Shellshear (prizes presented by Mr. G. M. Shaw).

Open Championship (doubles).—Messrs. Russell and Wallace (Talkoo)—prizes presented by Mr. M. Manuk; runners-up, Messrs. West and A. Clark (Police)—prizes presented by Mr. K. S. Morrison.

Rink competition (runners up).—Messrs. Goldenberg and Brawn (prizes presented by Mr. J. B. Ross).

Three cheers were called for Mrs. Gow, to whom Inspector Kent presented a pretty vase of flowers as a souvenir, Mr. Gow suitably replying on behalf of Mrs. Gow.
